FAIRLY HEAVY VOTE EXPECTED OUT IN COUNTY

Only 3 Contests, But Interest High For Amendment 1

Only three contests are up for decision when Morgan county voters go to the polls next Tuesday to name county and legislative officials.

However, two amendments are to be voted on and there is considerable interest in Morgan in one of these, giving rise to a belief that a fairly large turnout of voters will go to the polls despite the dearth of local races.

There are only two contests for county offices. All Democratic nominees except for county clerk and coroner have no Republican opposition as well as all five Democratic nominees for magistrates.

In the two contests for county offices, Democrat Austin Hill is opposing Republican incumbent Edgar Rudd for county clerk, and Willie E. Bentley, Democrat, is opposing Ray Blair, Republican, for coroner.

Morgan voters also will help decide one district race that for State Representative in the Morgan-Wolfe district. The Democrat nominee Talmadge Lacy is opposed by Elmer C. Roberts, Republican of Campton.

There is no race for State Senator, J. Everett Bach, Democrat of Jackson, having no opposition in the Morgan-Lee-Magoffin-Breathitt district.

Democrats having no opposition for county offices in Morgan are: Reed Halsey for county judge; Ren F. Nickell for county attorney; Aaron Lykins for sheriff; Della Williams for tax commissioner; and Bennie H. Patrick for jailer.

Democrats who are unopposed for magistrates are—J. F. Turner in Dist. No. 1, Arthur Barker in No. 2, Clyde Lewis in No. 3, W. P. Henry in No. 4, and Ervin Conley in No. 5.

Amendment No. 1 seeks to abolish Sec. 186 of the State constitution so that State school funds can be apportioned where most needed in order to more equalize educational opportunities as between rich and poor counties. Morgan is expected to turn in a big majority in favor of the amendment, since nearly everyone is aware that the change will provide more State funds for Morgan schools.

Amendment No. 2 proposes to amend the constitution so as to allow the General Assembly to provide the manner in which the four administrative heads shall be selected—Treasurer, Secretary of State, Commissioner of Agriculture and Superintendent of Public Instruction. Present constitutional provision provides that these officers shall be elected.

To Select City Officials

West Liberty voters, in addition to receiving a regular ballot, also will receive a city ballot to select a city council, mayor and police judge.

Three tickets are on the ballot. The Open Book party is composed substantially of the present city administration—Alvin Evans for mayor, John Helton for police judge, and Ora McClain, Charles Black, Glenn Stanley, Burlin Stacy, Woodrow Stamper and Joe Haney for council members.

The Honest Government party contains only the name of William (Billy) Smith for police judge.

The Home Town party is composed of: Homer E. Mann for mayor, Kenneth Fairchild for police judge, and Charles Holbrook, Rolie W. Lykins, Lonza Owens, Stanley Ryan and Frank Sheets for council members.

W. H. "Tooger" Wells announced this week he had withdrawn as a candidate for police judge.

VOTE FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

One hears much discussion now about equal educational opportunities for children in poorer counties. The Courier feels that the purpose of the state school fund is to collect money where the money is and spend it where the children are. At present this cannot be done because of section 186 of the constitution. If voters approve amendment No. 1 at the election next Tuesday, it will permit the General Assembly to apportion a bigger part of the state school fund to the poorer counties. That's why we urge all Morgan voters to vote "YES" on amendment No. 1.

This proposition is similar to the rural road fund that was set up to build roads into rural sections after the main system of highways already had been built, except that no additional tax is to be enacted.

Soil Conservation Service May Be Relegated To State To Operate

The Benson Plan ("proposal" until November 1) destroys once and for all any semblance of a national, unified technical service for America's 2,523 Soil Conservation Districts.

The world renowned Soil Conservation Service is to be cleverly and effectively destroyed as a technical agency. Gone will be its famous staff of agronomists, range specialists, woodland experts, biologists and grass pioneers who worked as a team so many years to develop the first effective soil conservation program in world history.

More Agencies to Choose From

Instead of one technical service, Soil Conservation Districts will be left to search through a maze of new—and old—disorganized and demoralized agencies for the specialized help they must have to save the very basis of our civilization. Henceforth, Soil Conservation District technicians will get specialized technical guidance in these fields from 48 different State Extension Services with as many different ideas.

For badly needed research on unsolved problems (in soil and water conservation) Districts will go to a brand new agency of the Department of Agriculture, the "Federal-States Relations Group." Those in charge, we hope, will refer districts to another brand new organization, "The Agricultural Research Service."

Services to Be Spread

Help with engineering problems, hydrology and soil surveys can be gotten from what remains of the old Soil Conservation Service. But the tiny staff left to furnish this help must spread itself over 48 different states.

Part of the list of "36 steps" it must take between now and June 30, 1954 were handed to the Soil Conservation Service on Oct. 13, with target dates as indicated—

1. Hold meeting of regional directors to explain reorganization and help develop plans for carrying it out. Oct. 15.

2. Revise organization charts for Washington and State offices. Oct. 15.

7. Explain new organization to local soil conservation district officials. Nov. 15. (You may conclude from this step that soil conservation districts were not consulted in the proposed reorganization.)

8. Set up separation registers for all SCS personnel of Grade 5 or above. Dec. 1. (SCS technicians in district offices are grade 5 to 9.)

9. Determine jobs for which all individuals in these separation registers are eligible. Dec. 1.

14. Determine from separation registers, as soon as 1955 budget is announced, employees assigned to activities which will be required in 1955, those individuals (Continued on Page Four)

EDGAR RUDD'S LAST APPEAL TO THE VOTERS OF MORGAN COUNTY

The only thing I have to say that I regret is that I haven't been in the office at all times to wait on you and to see all of you before the election.

But there is one thing that I am proud of, my wife and daughter have been there at all times to serve you with the kind of service you would expect of any office that is a friend to the voters of Morgan county.

Our friend, Mr. John Keck says, "He wants to send me to Ohio," but I want to say that I am a Kentuckian by birth and that my grandmother Vina (Bailey) Rudd was born and reared on Stacy Fork in Morgan county.

I was born and reared in Magoffin county and at the age of twenty-one I married Nora Lee Arnett, the daughter of C. M. Arnett and Jane (Howard) Arnett.

2 WELLS IN MAGOFFIN
Two wells in Magoffin county of Staffordville recently brought in two new oil wells on Jellico Creek in Magoffin county. Williams, who was in charge of production for a major oil company some 30 years ago, said sands in the new wells are highly saturated with oil and are showing more oil per acre than some wells drilled 30 years ago. He has 1200 acres of leases and plans to water-pressure the field.

FOR NOVEMBER ELECTION THE REGISTRATION BOOKS WERE CLOSED FROM SEPT. 5 TO NOV. 7

MORGAN PLAYS CATLETTSBURG HERE FRIDAY

Locals Defeated By Wurland Hi Friday 14 to 0

(By Rudy Franklin)
Surprised, beaten and let down was the predicament Coach Glenn Stanley and his Morgan Blue Devils found themselves in following the 14-7 licking handed them by Wurland Friday afternoon on the Wurland gridiron.

The loss probably counted more heavily than either of the two previous defeats inflicted on the Devils. Not only did it provide a great disappointment for the Morgan followers, but it also knocked them from any further claim to the N.E.K.C. championship. The best the Morgan team can do now is to finish second in the loop. To do this, however, the Morgan lads would have to beat Coach Charlie Snyder's unbeaten Catlettsburg Wildcats in their upcoming tilt Friday night on the Morgan field.

The same two teams met on the Catlettsburg battlefield way back on Sept. 4 in a pre-season battle. The game, played in a heavy drizzle on a field of mud, was a hard fought, rugged battle with the Blue Devils winning by a slim margin of 8-0. Both teams, however, have come a long way since then and although the undefeated Wildcats are favored by 18 points the Blue Devils could make it a very interesting evening.

Should the Morgan team win the tilt, it would mark the first time since the series began that a Morgan team has beaten the boys from Catlettsburg. Last year's contest was won by the Wildcats 13-0.

The Wurland contest was a hard-fought battle with Wurland winning in the first half. Both Wurland tallies were scored during the first half of play on drives of 80 and 54 yards respectively. Both extra point men were unable to make the kick.

During the last half the Morgan team seemed to find a renewed spirit. Although they were unable to score on any of their outgained opponents 122 to 53 yards. Their lone touchdown was scored by Lykins on a 23 yard sprint during the final three minutes of the fourth quarter. The extra point too was added by Lykins on an end sweep. Although the Morgan team fought gamely during the final minutes they were unable to overtake the spirited Warriors.

Pilot Bails Out Over West Liberty; P-86 Jet Crashes Into Hill at Yocum

MAJ. BRITTON, right, seated with his father, W. W. Britton of Knoxville at a booth in Elam's restaurant here shortly after the pilot got in town Wednesday morning after spending the night on a hillside wrapped in his parachute.

PILOT SPENDS NIGHT ON HILL & WALKS OUT

Sabre Jet Fighter Runs Out of Fuel Here On Tuesday

After a night of tension, the people of West Liberty and a large part of Morgan county breathed relief Wednesday morning when the pilot of an Air Force jet fighter that crashed near Yocum Tuesday evening, came into West Liberty safe and sound after spending the night wrapped in his parachute on a hillside in the Dyer Branch section.

The pilot identified himself as Maj. William D. Britton, 29, of Knoxville, stationed at the Alexandria, Louisiana Air Force base.

But more relieved than people here was his father, W. W. Britton, a brother and brother-in-law and their pastor, who drove here from Knoxville during the night, arriving about 5:30 a.m. Told at that time that the pilot had not been found they went on to the scene of the disintegrated plane before breakfast and came back to West Liberty about 7:15, the father believing that his son had been killed in the crash and the brother and pastor hoping and trying to convince the father that the Major had "bailed out" in time to save himself.

A Joyous Reunion

They were in this frame of anxious tension when they went into Elam's restaurant here and ordered breakfast, seating themselves at a back booth.

Minutes later W. G. Ratliff came in the restaurant, inquired if the jet pilot had been found. Mrs. Elam spoke up, "Why, yes, he came into town a while ago, and just went up the street."

Someone in the back booth overheard the conversation, and jumped up, crying "what?" When Mrs. Elam repeated the pilot was in town—and safe, all jumped up and rushed to the front for more information. The father, a man of 66, shedding tears as he reached the door.

APPRECIATES KINDNESS

I want to thank the very hospitable people of West Liberty for their great courtesy and the fine treatment I have received while here. It was good to learn that if I had been laying out there with a broken leg or some injury, they would have found me shortly.

I appreciate the hospitality, also the medical attention I got from your Dr. Murray. And I want to publicly thank Mrs. Troy Haney for the fine breakfast she got me, and to Eugene Haney for bringing me to town. I want to thank every one of the fine people here.

MAJ. WM. D. BRITTON

Informed that the pilot had walked up the street a few minutes before and was in Stamper's restaurant two doors away, the group rushed in there.

Maj. Britton was seated at a booth in the back dining room drinking coffee with two State Policemen when his father and the others entered. Miss Dorothy Williams, waitress, said they rushed into the dining room and "the next thing I saw was the pilot in his brother's arms—and then they all hugged up in a joyful reunion."

The plane, an F-86 jet fighter, zoomed over West Liberty about 5:30 Tuesday evening just after dusk, the roar of its jet sounding so loud in an overcast sky that many townspeople went outside to investigate. It circled the town twice again, but each time at a higher altitude, judging by the sound. The plane was not visible nor did it have lights. Many felt the plane was in trouble, and Fire Chief John Turner took the fire truck and volunteer motorists to a field near town and beamed the headlights to indicate an emergency landing strip. But the plane's sound had vanished then. Some townspeople saw a bright light as the jet's roar vanished northwestward. A few minutes later, Clay Collins phoned in from his store at Blaze that a plane had crashed on a hill about half way between Blaze and Yocum, and the State Police at Morehead were notified. Miss Letha Nell Patrick, teacher at the Hickory Grove school, had brought the news to Collins' store.

Within a few minutes, scores of cars converged at the scene of the crash—a hillside on the Jim Cooper farm on Paynter's Branch. (Continued on page five)

NINE STUDENTS IN WRECK HERE

Nine members of the junior class of the Morgan County high school narrowly escaped serious injuries when their car went over an embankment on the Index Hill at noon Tuesday while they were enroute to index to attend the funeral of the mother of a classmate, Mrs. Clyde Henry.

The car driven by Donald Stacy of Stacy Fork, ran off the highway at a curve and into a ravine. Stacy lost control of the car when a door flew open and he reached over to close it.

All nine were given first aid treatment at the hospital here, and then returned to their homes. One, Miss Henrietta Wells of West Liberty, was re-admitted Wednesday for treatment for bruises and cuts.

FARM BUREAU VOTES RESOLUTIONS ASKING THAT SCS BE CONTINUED

The Morgan County Farm Bureau at its Policy Development meeting here Oct. 17 adopted resolutions asking that Soil Conservation Districts be left unimpaired in the reorganization of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and that they be maintained and strengthened. The resolutions follow—

We, the Morgan County Farm Bureau Federation, of Morgan County, Kentucky, approved the following resolution to be made to the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, and Senators and Representatives:

WHEREAS, Soil Conservation Districts of Kentucky are public units made possible by the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The Soil Conservation Districts were set up by local people pursuant to the State Enabling Acts as units of local self government to assist individual farmers and groups of farmers to conserve and improve the soil and water resources of the lands they own and/or operate.

WHEREAS, These locally operated Soil Conservation Districts are making definite progress in the conservation of their soil and water resources, and therefore are making a definite contribution to the welfare of the people within the Soil Conservation Districts and to society in general.

WHEREAS, Our top soil, which the source of daily existence of all the peoples of the earth, has been badly eroded by wind and water. This, in the face of a rapidly growing population, gives us a problem that must be solved to avoid results existing in many parts of the world today.

AND WHEREAS, The lack of effective vegetative ground cover to catch and hold rainfall is resulting in destructive floods, silting in of our streams and reservoirs from eroding soil and the drying up of our sources of water for livestock, human consumption and industry.

AND WHEREAS, Results of placing conservation on our lands is paying off where Soil Conservation Districts have been in operation. More farmers are co-operating and like the democratic working of the organization, which goes without saying.

THEREFORE, be it resolved that we continue conserving our soil and water resources through Soil Conservation Districts, also bringing in abandoned land to produce more and better crops, hence more meat, grain, and (Continued on Page Four)

LEADERS OF BOTH PARTIES FAVOR REPEAL OF SECTION 186

Governor Lawrence Wetherby and Senator John Sherman Cooper have both publicly endorsed the repeal of section 186 of Kentucky's State constitution and have made speeches asking the people to vote "yes" on amendment No. 1 in the interest of better schools for Kentucky.

These are the two outstanding leaders of their parties and men of high distinction whose judgment and sincerity cannot be questioned. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction and practically all leaders in government and civic service are working for the repeal of this section.

To vote "yes" on amendment No. 1 has nothing to do with any other amendment, bonds or taxes and, as the Courier has stated previously, it is a matter of distributing the state school fund other than on a per capita basis.

We are firmly convinced that it will be to the interest of the schools in Eastern Kentucky and Morgan county to vote "yes" on amendment No. 1 at the November election next Tuesday.

Give me a man with good common sense and an honest heart and I would not be afraid to lend him money. Men with good common sense under ordinary conditions will not borrow money unless they can pay it. When good men borrow money, they intend to pay the debt.—From "Here and Hereafter" by Bob Jones University.

In New York recently a young woman died of heart failure during an operation. With the consent of her parents a segment of her artery was removed and replaced in the body of another young woman suffering from a faulty artery near her heart. She was restored to health and now has every prospect of a long life.

A report from Washington says every farmer is making $1.38 for every dollar he has in debts. Well, why not get yourself a million dollars in debt and make $380,000 on the deal. That makes sense according to the Washington report, but let's see you do it.

Economy Not the Reason

J. Earl Coke, assistant Secretary of Agriculture in charge of reorganization plans, stated to Waters S. Davis, president of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and his assistants in conference in Washington October 12, the day before the reorganization plan was given to the public, that the purpose of the entire reorganization is not to save money, but to realign the department so as to render better service. When asked what the prime moving reason for deciding on the elimination of the seven SCS regional offices was, Coke stated that our major concern is decentralization and of getting the States to work together. "It is probably true that it would be cheaper to handle certain house-keeping functions on a regional rather than a state basis."

Coke's Statements Inconsistent
We quote from a letter dated Oct. 20, 1953 received by Dillard Murphy, Ezel, chairman of the Morgan County Soil Conservation District, Senator John S. Cooper, quote:

"I know that there is a great deal of interest and concern in Kentucky over the proposals made by the Department for changes in the Soil Conservation Service. I called by telephone Dr. Salter of the Soil Conservation Service, and Mr. J. Earl Coke, assistant secretary in charge of organization plans, and talked to them about these proposals. Also, in order that I might be fully advised, I came to Washington last Thursday and talked to Mr. Coke and Dr. Salter.

"I went over the plans of organization with Mr. Coke, and I was assured by him that the plan does not in any way curtail or change or reassign the function of the state or local districts. The chief change, it appears to me, is that the seven District (regional) offices would be abolished. The explanation of Mr. Coke was that it would result in large savings and that would not in any way reduce or change the work of the State or local districts. I know that there are certain technical services and very competent technicians in the District offices, but I was further assured that these services and all needed technicians would be retained and that some would be placed at State offices."

Murphy Gets Further Assurance

"You may be assured that you will have my sympathetic consideration and I will do everything I can to help the Soil Conservation Service."

"I think you know my interest in the Soil Conservation Service, and I assure you that I want to do everything that I can to protect its independent character and to see its work progress. I know from my experience here that it is imperative that economies be made where possible, and I am certain that every Department of the Government can effect economies."

Makes Trip In Interest of SCS
"I have made this trip to Washington because of my interest in the work of the Soil Conservation Service, and my determination to see that its work is maintained. The proposals of the Department have not yet become effective. The matter will receive further consideration and the views of all those who have an interest will be examined."

fiber for our nation and the hungry peoples in other countries. We ask, in the name of better living conditions, better morals, and an advancement of spirituality the Soil Conservation Districts be recognized as an essential part of government and be considered an asset both to the government and to the taxpayers. All that Soil Conservation Districts ask of the National Government is appropriations sufficient to pay actual expenses for technical help and to recognize the great work done by men of vision and foresight, naturally prompted by the highest type of patriotism.

In our President's campaign speeches, one at least, he expressed himself as being strongly in favor of Soil Conservation Districts. His only criticism was that Soil Conservation Districts were moving too slowly. Let us pray that he use his power, through his Secretary of Agriculture, to speed it up. Our Senators and Representatives should become well acquainted with our work as Soil Conservationists.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That these locally organized and operated Soil Conservation Districts be left unimpaired in their work: Furthermore that the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture be maintained and strengthened as it now exists, and that the wishes and the recommendations of Soil Conservation Districts be duly and definitely considered in all contemplated action taken by local, state and federal officials or agencies whenever the conservation of soil and water is considered. We strongly favor farmer-managed Soil Conservation Districts, with the Soil Conservation Service and other public agencies giving such help as farmers request.

ENGLE ENDORSES HILL FOR CLERK

Yocum, Kentucky
October 19, 1953

TO THE VOTERS OF
MORGAN COUNTY

I am very much interested in Austin Hill being our next County Court Clerk. Being a veteran I think he deeply deserves the right to be your next County Court Clerk as he has heretofore served his country in time of need. I furthermore believe it is our duty to elect a man as clerk who can and will do the work in the office. Mr. Rudd may be capable of doing the work, but to you who visit the clerk's office, how many times has he recorded a deed for you, or issued license for your truck or car?

I earnestly ask all voters to go to the polls on Nov. 3rd and cast your vote for Austin Hill, whose interest will be of faithful service to one and all.

Sincerely,
JIM F. ENGLE

JET PILOT

about 9 miles northwest of West Liberty—and began searching the wreckage scattered over a half acre of the hillside. No trace of the pilot was found—but the jacket of a uniform, neatly pressed, was packed up close by. In it were papers bearing Maj. Britton's name.

A part of the jet turbine hurtled down the hill into the barn of Jim Cooper's and the white hot metal burned and cut the hind legs of a mule inside and set the barn on fire. However, the blaze was soon extinguished.

A part of the tail section was intact, but other than it and part of the jet turbine, the plane had been nearly disintegrated in a blinding explosion when it hit the hillside, spectators there said.

The flying debris had set numerous fires over the hillside.

Some of the searchers came back to town at 10 p.m. leaving the State Police on guard, with still no trace of the pilot.

At sunup next morning Maj. Britton made his way off a hillside on Dyer Branch, 4 miles north of West Liberty, to the farm home of Troy Hane, a mile from Poma. When the pilot told who he was, Mrs. Hane, he said, hugged him like a son, overjoyed at his safe escape. Her son, Eugene, had helped search for the pilot the previous night. She prepared him a breakfast of bacon and eggs and biscuits, etc., and then Eugene, who works at the West Liberty Cut Rate Market, brought him to town. It was a few minutes later that the dramatic reunion, with his father and others took place.

The P-86 jet fighter is in the 600-mile-an-hour class of modern planes. Maj. Britton was en route from Louisiana to McGhee-Tyson Air Force Base at Knoxville, but his radio went dead and it is believed he overshot Knoxville.

With his fuel supply nearly exhausted as he neared West Liberty at dusk, Maj. Britton dropped down below the overcast here, he said, attempting to locate an emergency landing strip which was shown on his map as being near the Piedmont Airlines base on a hill here. Finding no strip here, he said he climbed back to 12,000 feet and "balled out in the clouds."

"I was talking over my radio to Knoxville while over West Liberty, but got no answers," he said. "I told them I had pulled out of the overcast at 6,000 feet," he said.

Because of the great speed of jets, the only way a pilot can leave a disabled plane is by catapulting himself—seat and all—from the craft with an explosive charge. (The aluminum seat was found by Silas Collins, tenant on the Curran Nickell farm on Gravelly Lick, 3 miles North of town, Tuesday.)

Britton said he bailed out while still near West Liberty. He landed four miles north and his plane crashed 9 miles northwest.

Britton told The Courier he came down in some brush in a field after dark. "I had lost my flashlight, but I lighted a map and waved it around, but of course no one saw it," he commented. "Then I tried to build a fire, but the wind on the hill was too strong and blew it out. So I wrapped up in my parachute and spent the night."

Next morning, he heard some dogs barking and made his way to the Hane home.

Meanwhile, the crash had been reported to daily papers and the Knoxville Journal telephoned his father at 10:30. The father and a son, Robert; a brother-in-law, Tom Hawkins, and their pastor, Rev. Charles Ausmus of the Lincoln Park Baptist church, left Knoxville at midnight and drove

MORGAN VETERANS SUPPORT RUDD

We wish the veterans of Morgan county would go to the polls on November 3 and vote for Edgar Rudd for County Court Clerk, for he has never been a slacker. Because of his disability he could not enter the Service. He has always been kind and a friend to the veterans everywhere he meets them.

here. The pilot's mother took a plane to Alexandria, La. to be with his wife and two small sons while the search went on.

Maj. Britton and his party were guests at the Cole Hotel until Thursday afternoon when he left for Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

Technicians from Wright-Patterson, military police and officers came here Tuesday to gather the wreckage and conduct a routine investigation into the crash. In the Air Force since 1942, Maj. Britton served as a fighter pilot in the Italian and European campaigns in World War II and was wounded by flak in Italy, according to his pastor. "But this is the first time I ever had to bail out," the major told The Courier.

Why carry heavy baskets of wash out to the clothesline when there's an easier, better way to dry clothes? You can dry clothes without doing any hard work when you have an electric clothes dryer right next to your washer. Just toss wet clothes in, set the dial, and within an hour or so your clothes are dry. Results are amazing:

colors don't fade
towels, sheets, corduroys come out fluffier everything comes out sparkling clean

An electric clothes dryer saves time, too! You can dry clothes when it's most convenient for you... day or night, rain or shine. It's the greatest work-saver ever invented for women! See a demonstration at your dealer's. You've got to see it to believe it.

So much of what we hear about somebody is probably exaggerated and to repeat it only adds further exaggeration. Mark Twain once remarked that "A lie can travel around the world while the

TO THE VOTERS OF THE TOWN OF WEST LIBERTY

The time is getting closer every day to election when you will give your votes and influence to someone of us four men to serve you as your Police Judge—William (Billy) Smith, Kenneth Fairchild, John Helton and Toogers Wells.

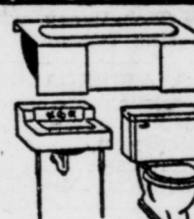

Voters, you don't know how I would appreciate it if you will make up your minds to give me this little office. I need it, and the people of this town know me. I am not tied up with any man or group of men. If I am elected your Police Judge, I will feel clear to and will deal out justice between all men or any businesses that come under my authority. I urge all voters to go to the polls and vote, and every vote that I get in this town will be highly appreciated.

Prize Winning Home From Small Homes Guide Is Easy On The Family's Budget

Because the simple lines of this home designed by Architect Erwin H. James make it acceptable to the family that must keep the budget in mind, it was chosen as the prize winning design in the current edition of Small Homes Guide.
Space was allotted jealously when the rooms were laid out, without a square inch wasted. There is almost no hall space; the main bathroom and the powder room off the master bedroom are compactly fitted in; a small area is cut off from the dining-living room to serve as an entry without space taken for a special vestibule; the kitchen is the space saving L-shape.
The den can have a multiple function, serving as nursery and play space for children while Mother is at work in the kitchen; serving to carry traffic that might otherwise flow through the living room; serving its planned purpose as den or home office, or it can be a dining room. The total area is 1,319 sq. ft. Information on blueprints and their cost can be obtained by writing to Small Homes Guide, Dept. 1202, 82 W. Washington, Chicago 2, Ill.

TO TAXPAYERS OF MORGAN COUNTY

Vote YES for AMENDMENT No. 1 so as to provide better schools for your children. There is no danger of raising your local taxes as you are now paying the limit while some counties are only paying half of the limit. By repealing Section 186 you will pave the way for equal opportunities for our children.

Under the present conditions your children can never have equal educational opportunities. By voting "no" on Section 186 you are voting against your children's interest and voting for the rich sections of Kentucky.

Most outstanding Kentuckians have endorsed Amendment No. 1 and feel that it is the only chance that Kentucky has to better its educational status.

Amendment No. 1 will appear first on your ballot and a sample ballot will be printed in this issue. We must realize that if we fail this time that it will be years before we will ever have another chance to better our conditions. We are having more and more emergency teachers, larger transportation problems and building emergencies. More children want to come to high school but it is nearly impossible as we have gone as far as we can under the present set up.

Under the proposed program Morgan county would receive twice as much from the State as it now receives which would mean all these things for our children without increasing your local taxes. Vote "yes" and give the legislature a chance to divide school money on a need basis. Don't vote against Morgan county's children. Vote YES on AMENDMENT No. 1!

W. H. WELLS WITHDRAWS

TO THE VOTERS OF WEST LIBERTY—
Some time ago, I filed for the office of Police Judge of West Liberty, thinking I was physically able to take care of the office, but it is with regret that I find I am not. So I wish to thank those who would have supported me on Nov. 3rd for all you did to make the race a success could I have run.

Sincerely,

A LETTER TO EVERY MORGAN COUNTY PARENT

As parents, citizens and teachers of Morgan county, we feel that voting "yes" means bigger and better opportunities for our children and our children's children. As parents, we work hard and long, trying to make for a better life for our children. We grow tired and weary, but our hearts are lightened by the thought that it is helping our Johnny, Sue or Jane. We watch them climb on crowded school buses with standing room only, which take them from their home and hour earlier than would be normally necessary if there were more buses. They come home later than necessary because their bus must take first another load.

We begin to watch the clock about three and as its regular ticking chases away the hour, we get sick in the pit of the stomach, nervous and shaky, wondering if our child is OK.

The cold winter wind lets out a howl around the dark corner, the anxiety reaches to the very core of our life and heart, just as we see a little figure coming up the dusky path, cold, afraid, and hungry. We reach out and hold it close, with a heart ready to burst, and eyes brimming full of tears—but then, we remember and ask God to help us to be brave.

The teacher sees and is swamped with eager eyes watching her. She wonders, Oh God, how will I ever manage 50 children in a room which is only large enough to seat 25 comfortably?

And how will I give each child justice when I have so many? She works hard and earnestly all day, but when three o'clock comes she realizes that time didn't permit her to take this one, or that one, and give it special individual help.

She goes home and decides perhaps she can get around to it tomorrow, but tomorrow seldom comes in that case, and she is haunted by those bright expressive eyes which longingly pleaded for her help.

We hope, wait and pray, wondering if the day will ever come when Morgan county's children will have an equal educational opportunity to the "so called" richer counties.

Don't forget this: We are paying taxes just like the other counties, but some of them are getting more benefit from it than we—and this amendment is designed to strew this money equally—so that we so-called poor counties can get the benefit we deserve. If we vote "yes" we will be paving the way for more buses, more teachers, less crowded schoolrooms, better buildings and all-around better development of our children.

MRS. ANITA P. BLAIR
Parent and Teacher

LAST APPEAL TO VOTERS OF WEST LIBERTY—
I want to thank Mr. Tuger Wells. I really think when he quit it helped me. We have always been good friends. I am surprised at Kenneth Fairchild. He told me in the presence of witnesses on the sidewalk in front of the drug store, he said: "Billy, I don't aim to run. I just thought I would stop and tell you." I said, "Kenneth, I sure thank you."

Nobody writes my statement for me. I write them and take them to the editor in longhand. They will tell you this. A man who can't write his own statement does not have knowledge to be Police Judge.

Now again to the voters of West Liberty, both Democrats and Republicans, you all have your vote to use next Tuesday, the 3rd of November, 1953. I can't express in words how I feel or when I can quit thanking you all if you elect me your Police Judge. And I really believe and have confidence in the voters that they are going to elect me.

Yours,
BILLY SMITH

HELTON MAKES LAST APPEAL TO VOTERS

During my campaign for reelection to the office of Police Judge of West Liberty, I have stated my position to the voters and have appealed to you on the basis of my record in office for the past four years. I have seen no article in the paper to date by my opponent and I do not know on what grounds or platform he is conducting his campaign. However, if some article should appear in the last issue of the paper before the election, I am sure the voters will be able to consider and properly evaluate any statements made although I will not have an opportunity to make a public answer before the election. I will appreciate your support and your vote for me on next Tuesday.

Respectfully,
JOHN HELTON
